

CAROL PATEY

Carol Patey recently retired from a career at the U.S. Government Accountability Office, where she has worked since obtaining her degree in accounting from Bloomsburg University in Pennsylvania. She has audited a wide range of programs, including environmental, job training, workplace regulation, and education programs. She served on GAO's Recovery Act team that reviewed expenditures in 16 states and D.C. and assessed recipient reporting across the nation. For the last decade, she has focused on federal grant management, including grant streamlining and transparency of grant funding.
