VINCENT FILIPPA

Deputy State Auditor, Connecticut Auditors of Public Accounts

Serving as one of the CT APA's two deputy state auditors since April 2022, Vinnie is responsible for directing the office's overall operations. Vinnie's career with the CT APA began nearly 25 years ago when he was initially hired as an intern while he was completing his final undergraduate semester.

Throughout his career, Vinnie gained experience in all facets of the office's audits of CT state and quasi-public agencies, including leading the state's Annual Comprehensive Financial Report (ACFR) and federal Statewide Single Audit (SWSA) engagements, as well as statutorily required compliance audits, other financial statement audits, and whistleblower complaint and other reviews. Vinnie earned a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration, major in accounting, from Central Connecticut State University and a Master's Degree in Accounting and Taxation from the University of Hartford. He holds both the Certified Public Accountant (CPA) and Certified Fraud Examiner (CFE) certifications.

JOHN C. GERAGOSIAN

State Auditor, State of Connecticut

John C. Geragosian has served as one of the State of Connecticut's two state auditors since January of 2011. During his tenure, the Auditors of Public Accounts (APA) converted to a paperless auditing system and developed a comprehensive intranet platform to assist and inform APA employees. Geragosian changed the office's peer review to the comprehensive National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers, and Treasurers (NASACT) program. He worked to create expand the office's Performance Audit Unit. He also continues to enhance the office's use of technology to conduct audits and oversight of state information technology systems.

Geragosian partnered with Connecticut's other state auditors (Robert Ward, Robert Kane, and Clark Chapin) to increase the office's interaction with the Connecticut General Assembly to assist legislators as they enact public policy. In 2018, the legislature passed a law based on three audits that changed the system of special education contracting, oversight, and payments to private providers that contract with municipalities and the state. In 2020, the office released an audit of the Department of Social Services (DSS) and its non-emergency transportation vendor (Veyo). The audit report contained 59 recommendations to improve the program and ensure the state received its contracted services. As a result of the audit, DSS and Veyo renegotiated their agreement and changed policies and procedures to address nearly all the audit's recommendations.

In 2023, Geragosian was elected Secretary of the NASACT Executive Committee. He also received the NASACT President's Award at the 2023 NASACT Annual Conference. The award recognized Geragosian for his efforts as NSAA President and his role in the association's efforts to improve cooperation with federal agencies and officials as state auditors took on additional work overseeing pandemic and other federal funds.

Geragosian currently serves on the NASACT Governance, Personnel, Strategic Planning, and Training & Professional Development committees. He also serves on the National State Auditors Association (NSAA) Executive (Immediate Past President), Annual Meeting Program, Emerging Leaders Conference Program, Human Resources, and Nominating committees. In 2018, Geragosian was appointed by his peers to the NSAA Executive Committee. Geragosian served as NSAA President from June of 2022 until June of 2023. As president, he served as one of the state auditor representatives on the NASACT Executive Committee, chairing the NASACT Constitution & Bylaws Committee.

Prior to his appointment as state auditor, John served in the Connecticut House of Representatives for 16 years. Elected in November of 1994, he represented the 25th Assembly District in New Britain and Newington. John served as the co-chair of the Appropriations Committee.

Prior to serving in the legislature, Geragosian served in local government. He was an Alderman in the City of New Britain from 1989 to 1993. He is a graduate of the University of Connecticut with a degree in Political Science. Geragosian is a lifelong resident of New Britain, where he lives with his wife, Audrey, and daughter Molly.

JEFFREY S. SHAPIRO

Inspector General, Commonwealth of Massachusetts

Jeffrey S. Shapiro was appointed Inspector General for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts by then Governor Charlie Baker, Attorney General Maura Healey and Auditor Suzanne Bump on September 2, 2022, and was sworn-in to a five-year term on October 3, 2022. The Massachusetts Office of the Inspector General (OIG), was created in 1980 with the first Inspector General taking office in 1981 and is the first state level inspector general's office in the nation. Inspector General Shapiro is the Commonwealth's fifth inspector general. The OIG is an independent agency with an annual budget of over $10 million and nearly 90 employees. With oversight for $120 billion in municipal and state spending and the work of approximately 300,000 public employees, its mission is to prevent and detect fraud, waste, and abuse in the use of public funds and property.

As such, Jeffrey is proactively building relationships with state and local officials to promote good government and to position the office as a resource. Additionally, he is expanding education and training for local government employees on proper procedures in public procurement, contract administration and governance. Under his leadership, the OIG has issued reports and reviews that address procurement practices, contract controls and management of a public transit agency and a large metropolitan school district; made recommendations to a small town and a housing authority on the need for strong oversight and internal controls; and sought repayment of funds fraudulently obtained through overtime fraud and a pandemic rental assistance program. To enhance OIG's oversight capabilities, he created the position of Director of Veterans' Services, a Healthcare Division and additional leadership roles in several divisions to expand the agencies' ability to follow up on prior audits, reviews, letters and monitor post-audit performance.

Prior to his appointment as Inspector General, Jeffrey was the First Deputy Comptroller of the Commonwealth. In this role he was a leader in helping to prepare the agency for the future as an early member of the multi-year team focused on moving the Commonwealth from its legacy enterprise financial system to a modern system; empowered leadership to rethink business processes to incorporate technology; focused on enhancing efforts around cybersecurity, business continuity and knowledge transfer; played an active role positioning the office to provide uninterrupted payroll and payment services throughout the pandemic; and played a leadership role ensuring that the Commonwealth had available financial resources during the early days of the pandemic when such items as personal protective equipment were scarce due to international supply chain limitations. A collaborative and results-oriented executive, Jeffrey has devoted his career to public service. He is known as a fair and open-minded public administrator who leads by example. For over 30 years, he has served in various legal, administrative and fiscal roles in the Middlesex District Attorney's Office and the Massachusetts Attorney General's Office. Earlier in his career, Jeffrey served as a legislative assistant on both Capitol Hill in Washington, DC, and on Beacon Hill in Boston.

A Needham High School graduate, Jeffrey earned his Juris Doctor from Suffolk Law School and a Bachelor of Arts from Brandeis University. He is a member of the Massachusetts bar and earned his Certified Inspector General designation from the Association of Inspectors General. He is a former elected Needham Town Meeting Member. Jeffrey and his wife, Lisa, live in Needham, where they raised their two adult sons.
